that the examinations are not held fairly ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—Yes, Sir, complaints were received.

Sri J. MOHAMED IMAM.—In all such cases where motives are imputed, is it not desirable to have the papers revalued by an independent authority?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—No. If there is any basis for such allegations, the matter could be considered. But here the basis itself was not true.

Sri J. MOHAMED IMAM.—These complaints themselves are the basis. So, in such cases, is it not desirable to have these papers revalued by independent authorities just to test whether the examiners had done their work properly ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—The Board has felt that the work has been done properly.

1 P.M.

Sri R. CHANNIGARAMIAH.—Will the Government be pleased to get these papers revalued by different examiners since the percentage of passes is considered very low ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—This is not a teaching institution to guarantee passes. It is only an examining body in that particular paper and that paper is given and they are examined. Therefore, the question of percentage of passes does not loom so large before them though it is a matter to be taken into consideration.

Sri R. CHANNIGARAMIAH.—Because there is agitation, will the Government consider ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—The Board has examined and has come to the conclusion that it is not desirable.

Sri G. DUGGAPPA.—Were any grace marks given for certain candidates who sat for the examination ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—I have said that no grace marks were given except in case of the Accounts Higher and that at the instance of the examiner himself.

Sri G. DUGGAPPA.—How many candidates were given the grace marks?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—May I know in what subject ?

Sri G. DUGGAPPA.—In the Accounts Higher ?

Sri A. G. RAMACHANDRA RAO.—Three per cent had passed in the Accounts Higher.

Mr. SPEAKER.—The Hon'ble Member came a little bit late and so some questions are repeated.
